I. INTRODUCTION
In the elements contained in the building space of a hotel there are many types of rooms. In terms of functions can be grouped into three types of space functions, namely the main function, supporting functions and supporting functions. In the three groups of space functions certainly have their respective roles that are important to support all the activities that exist in the hotel. Each of these functions has a relationship with each other so that the activities that run at the hotel can take place smoothly, therefore the design of space in each function of the room must be considered properly for the convenience of visitors and hotel managers.

In the main function room group, there are types of rooms that have the most important role for hotel activities, namely sleeping rooms and family rooms that are common in a hotel room. The bedroom and family room as the main function of course must be highly considered in terms of interior layout for the comfort of visitors, a good inner space must pay attention to the comfort of visitors so that they are at home in a room, then they must pay attention to the privacy of the room and matters related to comfort for visitors such as ventilation, lighting and noise levels.

As a room that has the main function to rest and gather with family in a hotel room, the bedroom and family room should be able to give a comfortable impression for guests who will use the hotel room facilities. In an effort to create comfort for visitors who are active in it, it is necessary to design a concept of space that can give the impression of comfort and calm so that visitors can rest quickly and without interference from other visitors and hotel managers.

In determining the concept of interior space, an approach to the characteristics of interior space is needed in terms of material, color and furniture used in hotel rooms.
II. RESULT AND ANALYSIS

A. Object Existing

The first stage of the process of designing the inner space of the selected object is to carry out a review of the bedroom and family room objects that are housed in the Swiss-Bel Hotel. At the main facility in the form of a sleeping room in the Swiss-Bel Hotel is a deluxe room type bedroom that has facilities in the form of a bedroom, decorative table, work table, cupboard and decorations in the form of pots for indoor vegetation.

In supporting facilities in the hotel room in the form of a family room has a room size that is quite spacious and the facilities provided are also quite complete and the design of the cozy living room and very suitable for relaxing when in a hotel room, facilities provided in the form of a sofa, television, tables and there are some wall decorations on the wall that have a mini-malis design and soothing the eyes, in addition to the living room area there is also a bathroom located next to each other so that it is easy to access by visitors if needed.

The entrance to the hotel room is located in the family room facing the bathroom and then to the family room and visitors are directed to the bedroom. The entrance to the bedroom is located to the right of the family room so that visitors can easily access the bedroom and the man-in room from the family room.

Based on the results of object reviews, Swiss-Bel Hotel has hotel rooms that apply the concept of a modern room and added a minimalist touch to the furniture as well as the colors and materials applied. Each room in the hotel room has a connection in terms of concepts and materials applied so that it has the same combination of rooms in the hotel room.

B. Literature Review

Based on the review of existing objects in the previous stage, it can be concluded that the design concept applied in the design of the space in the bedroom and family room of the Swiss-Bel Hotel, Nusa Dua is a minimalist modern concept. This is based on the demands of comfort and aesthetics and the tranquility of visitors in the space. The application of color in the room is also considered given the color is the main focus in designing. Each color also has potential that has positive and negative effects on a person. The use of color is related to a person's psychological condition which will affect the body, mind, emotions and balance [1].

In the Modern Natural Concept, tonal colors are used such as brown which represents natural colors and simple colors such as gray, cream and white which represent modern impression which tends to look simple and not many motifs or patterns. In the application of the Natural Concept, natural materials such as wood which are given a clear finish can be applied so that the original texture remains visible and is not easily damaged. The effort to apply the Modern Concept is to use materials that are simple in character but still stylish and look clean [2].

C. Application of Modern Natural Concepts

In an effort to realize a minimalist modern concept that gives the impression of a simple but elegant material and furniture chosen that supports the appearance in accordance with the concept and selection of soft colors so as to give the impression of a cool eye and comfortable to look at, the lighting is also selected lamps that look minimalist that is down light and natural lighting sources obtained from the dominant wide openings in the room.
