I. INTRODUCTION

For human being, communication is an activity of exchanging and conveying information by speaking or writing among people. Holmes (2000) added that people’s speech reflects not only aspects of their identity such as their ethnicity, age, gender, and social background, it also reflects the contexts in which they are using the language.

Language varieties indicate that the speakers are distinct from members of other groups (Finegan, 2008:330). There are some examples of language variations that are of interest to linguist according to Akmajian et al (1998), lingua francas, pidgins, creoles, jargon, slang, and taboo language. The main concern of this English writing is was focus only on the language variation which could be categorized as slang.

According to Leech & Svartvik (1981) “slang is language which is very familiar in style, and it is usually restricted to the members of a particular social group. In this study, the writer showed the importance of languages in globalization and lifestyle.

The writer focused on the domination of slang language that used in song’s lyrics in different genre. This research used theory of the types slang by Patridge (2004:204) and the meaning of the slang word used theory by Geoffrey Leech (1974).
