1. Background of the Study

Every day people use language to communicate with each other. As members of society, people have their own behavior toward language. Every language shows the social characters of the speaker or addressee. Furthermore, it shows the relation between them. Addressing term is one of the important means of communication used in society.

Types of basic rules determining the addressing terms used are social class, age, sex, profession, marital status, politeness and other related aspects. The speaker uses addressing terms to call the person who are involved in the conversation. The use of addressing terms depends on the speaker and addressee relationship, the social status or individuals involved in the conversation, the situation and purpose of the conversation. The aim of addressing is to maintain the social relationship between speaker and addressee in society (Artika, 2008 ). One of movies that contain Address Terms is The Final Destination Two directed by David R. Ellis, which was written by Jeffrey Reddick, Eric Bress and J. Mackey Gruber.

2. Problem of the Study

From the background of the study, the research problems can be formulated as follows:

1. What types of addressing terms are used in the Manuscript of the Movie “Final Destination Two”?
2. What are the reasons of using addressing terms used in Manuscript of the Movie “Final Destination Two“?

3. Aims of the Study

Based on the problem of study, the aims of study are:

1. To identify the variations of addressing terms used in the manuscript of the movie “ Final Destination Two”.
2. To find out the reasons of using addressing terms used in the manuscript of the movie “ Final Destination Two “.

4. Research Method

In this research, Final Destination 2 by David R. Ellis is used as the data source. The film was released in 2003. It is an American Supernatural horror and as a part of the sequel from the first movie “Final Destination (2000)”. The movies contain many examples of Address Terms, So the films The Final Destination Two is relevant to the topic of the study.

The data in this study were collected using the method of documentation. The data were collected through the following steps. First, watching the movie; second, making the general review including reading the Final Destination 2 movie manuscript and observing the data. Third, classifying the data which are included in the variation of address terms.

The data were analysed qualitatively based the theory of Politeness proposed by Brown and Levinson (1987). In this study, a contrastive analysis of address terms regarding politeness theory of Brown and Levinson (1987) was used. The movie Final Destination Two as the main source of data in the research was analyzed using the sociolinguistic approach.

5. Result and Discussion

This part deals with the result and discussion of the analysis of the types of addressing terms taken from Final Destination 2 movie.

5.1. Addressing Terms Use In Movie “ Final Destination Two “

Based on the data source, the analysis shows that there are five kinds of addressing terms found in the movie “Final Destination 2”.

5.1.1 Addressing Terms Using Name

In this type of addressing term, the speakers address the others by calling their names. Usually, the speakers use the first name, last name, nickname or family name. Example: in this conversation, Mr. Burrough as Kimberly’s Father. They are very closely related as a father and a daughter. When Kimberly will go far away from her home, Mr Burroughs is very afraid of his daughter so that he reminds of her needs such as credit cards, cell phone, AAA card, etc

Kimberly : Thanks, Dad. I’ll call you

Mr. Burrough : You have everything, Kimberly ? Credit card, cell phone, AAA. Card?

In the dialogue above, Mr Burroughs, addresses his daughter using her first name. He just called “Kimberly” without her last name.

5.1.2 Addressing Terms Using Kinship

In this type of addressing terms, the speaker uses the kinship terms to address the others. The form of kinship terms is Title without Last Name (TLN). Example: In this conversation, When Kimberly says goodbye to go to Daytona, his father, Mr Burroughs is very worried because he will be deserted by his beloved daughter. Both of them have very close relationship because so far they only stay alone at home. Kimberly tries to make him relaxed when she would leave. And the setting is high way on ramp.

Kimberly : Thanks, dad. I'll call you.

Mr. Burrough : You have everything, Kimberly? Credit card, cell phone, AAA card?

Kimberly : Relax, dad. It's Daytona, not Mongolia.

EXT. HIGHWAY ON RAMP – DAY (Then Kimberly's CELL PHONE RINGS. She hits the speaker button.)

Mr. Burrough : Kimberly? It's Dad.

Kimberly : Hey, dad. What's up?

In the dialogues, Kimberly addresses her father by pronouncing “Dad”. “Dad” is substandard addressing terms of “Daddy” and the synonym of “Father”.

5.1.3 Addressing Terms Using Intimacy

To call someone, people can use several ways, such as honey and sweetie. These kinds of words are used to express intimacy. These words are called addressing terms using intimacy because they fulfil its characteristics: short word which is uncommon in formal setting. If a speaker has a close relationship with the hearer, his or her words of speech can be intimate.

For example, as it is described before, Mr Burroughs and Kimberly are the father and daughter who have deep relationship. Both Kimberly and her father love each other. The conversation above is taking place while Kimberly will go to Daytona and his father is very afraid to let her go.

Kimberly : I know this is the first time we've been apart since. But everything's gonna be okay.

Mr. Burrough : I know, honey. I just (Kimberly hugs him tighter. Cutting him off)

In the dialogue above, the word “Honey” is used by the father to his daughter as the addressee. It is used by people who have close relationship to increase intimacy and to give respect by not calling someone’s name.

5.1.4 Addressing Terms Using Respect

In this type of addressing term, the speakers address the others using title and first name (TFN), title and last name (TLN) and sometimes just title (T) without name. Example: Shaina is one of Kimberly’s friends who will go along with her to Daytona. When she comes to Kimberly’s house, he meets Mr Burroughs who is Kimberly’s father and they have a conversation

Shaina : Just kidding, Mr. B don’t worry, I’ll keep an eye on her.

Mr. Burrough : (sarcastic) Oh, that makes me feel a lot better.

Shaina addresses Kimberly’s father using the combination of title and abbreviation of name, that is, “Mr B” for “Mr Burroughs. Shaina wants to give respect to Mr Burroughs as Kimberly’s father.

5.1.5 Addressing Terms Using Mockery

Addressing terms can be used by swearing or mocking. Terms like fool, idiot, and shit are usually employed to mock someone. Example, Frankie is one of Kimberly's who go along with her to Daytona. On the way to Daytona, Kimberly drives her car slowly and carefully. It triggers Frankie's anger. He thinks that she should drive quickly because they do have 1200 miles to go. Frankie asks Kimberly angrily and loudly to increase her speed. Inside Nissan Suv

Frankie : Gas it around these idiots. We do have 1200 miles to go, you know. (Kimberly tires to enter the passing lane, but she's blocked by a suburu wagon)

In the dialogue above, Frankie also addresses Kimberly by pronouncing "idiot". In this situation, Frankie is angry to Kimberly because she drove slowly.

5.2. The Reasons of Using Addressing Term

5.2.1 The Reasons of Using Addressing Term Using Name

A. To show care

Kimberly's Neighbourhood – Day

Kimberly : Thanks, Dad. I'll call you.

Mr. Burrough : You have everything, Kimberly? Credit card, cell phone, AAA card?

They are very closely related as a father and a daughter. When Kimberly will go far away from her home, Mr Burroughs is very afraid of his daughter so he reminds of her needs such as credit cards, cell phone, AAA card, etc. Mr Burroughs addresses Kimberly directly by calling her name. When Mr Burroughs addresses her daughter using the first name of Kimberly, it means that Mr Burroughs wants to show his attention and intimacy to her daughter.

B. To Show Power / Authority

5.2.2 The Reason of Using Addressing Terms Using Kinship

A. To Show Politeness

In the room

Nora : You're all certifiable, you know that? I can't believe I've been listening to this crap. Come on, Tim, let's go outside.

Tim : Jeez, Mom, stop tripping!

Nora and Tim are a mother and a son. They are both involved as witnesses in a major accident on the highway. When they are in an interrogation in a room at the police station, Nora can be calm and he keeps pacing back and forth. Tim sees his mother's attitude and feels a little distracted. Although Tim dislikes his mother's attitude, Tim still calls her mother with the word "mom" calmly and politely. However, Nora is his mother, so Tim still shows that he gives respect to his mother when addressing her. By mentioning the word "mom", it means that Tom wants to show a sense of decency and gives respect to his parents although he dislikes her mother's attitude.

5.2.3 The Reason of Using Addressing Term Using Intimacy

A. To Show Intimacy'

Ext. Kimberly's Neighbourhood in the afternoon

Kimberly : I know this is the first time we've been apart since. But everything's gonna be okay.

Mr. Burrough : I know, honey. I just (Kimberly hugs him tighter. Cutting him off)

As it is described before, Mr Burroughs and Kimberly are the father and daughter who have deep relationship. Both Kimberly and her father love each other. The conversation above is taking place while Kimberly will go to Daytona and his father is very afraid of letting her go. Seen from the circumstances occurring at that time, the word "Honey" uttered by Mr Burroughs to Kimberly is intended to show his affection and intimacy between a father and his daughter.

B. To Warm Someone

5.2.4 The Reason of Using Addressing Term Using Respect

A. To Show Politeness

On Highway on ramp in the afternoon.

Kimberly : (Incoherent, through tears) There's going to be a pile up. Logs. Bodies everywhere. I saw it happen. It happened. (Thomas looks to the guys in back who shrug, "we don't know her.")

Thomas : Miss, please step out of the vehicle.

On the way to Daytona, Kimberly has a bad premonition that a huge accident will happen in that highway. Kimberly is confused and afraid. To avoid that accident, Kimberly pulls her car forward, turning it sideways to block all the traffic. The action of Kimberly causes a traffic jam, so a police officer, Thomas Burke, exits from his car and approaches Kimberly's car.

Thomas and Kimberly have never met before; in other words, they are strangers. When Thomas asks Kimberly to step out of the vehicle, he addresses Kimberly politely by mentioning the word "miss". It means that Thomas want to show his politeness to a person who he has just met.

5.2.5 The Reason of Using Addressing Term Using Mockery

A. To Show Anger

Inside Nissan SUV

Frankie : Gas it around these idiots. We do have 1200 miles to go, you know. Kimberly tires to enter the passing lane, but she's blocked by a suburu wagon.

Frankie is one of Kimberly's who goes along with her to Daytona. On the way to Daytona, Kimberly drives her car slowly and carefully. It triggers Frankie's anger. He thinks that she should drive quickly because they do have 1200 miles to go. Frankie asks Kimberly angrily and loudly to increase her speed. By using the word “idiot” to address Kimberly, it means that Frankie wants to show her anger to Kimberly.

6. Conclusion
